PERMITS FOR MONTH

BUILDING IN JANUARY SHOWS LARGE FALLING OFF COMPARED TO LAST YEAR

How much Glendale has been affected by the dullness of the times is easily seen in the building record of the month. Building records have always been accepted as an indication of business conditions and while that test must be modified by circumstances it is on the whole a pretty fair indication of the general conditions in a community. In the month of January, 1916, twenty-one permits were granted. Out of these there were only five for buildings costing more than $1000. The others were for small buildings such as garages, additions to existing buildings and alterations to stores, etc.

The total amount of the January permits was $14,550. Of this amount $12,900 was the value of 6 buildings. This shows up very poorly beside the record of Jan. 1915, which had 28 permits with a total value of $39,960. In all but six cases the owner figures also as contractor.

Following are the permits:

The Christian Church is erecting a schoolroom at the corner of Colorado boulevard and Louise, at a cost of $200.

Cole and Damerall are making alterations on a store at 341 Brand, at a cost of $100.

L. N. Rudy is altering a store at 345 Brand. The cost is $100.

J. H. White is having a garage built at First and Orange at a cost of $50. The contractor is E. T. Owen.

W. L. Andrews has built a garage at 1552 Pioneer Drive. Cost $150; contractor, R. H. Reynolds.

M. J. Meredith, owner and contractor; addition to 1427 W. Seventh; cost $40.

James G. Umbraugh, owner and contractor; addition to 1443 Fifth; cost $300.

F. H. Reed, owner and contractor; addition to 332 S. Adams; $200.

S. P. Stanford, owner and contractor, is building a dwelling house at 1500 Salem street; cost $2000.

Fred W. Dow, owner and contractor, has built a garage at 833 N. Louise, at a cost of $50.

B. R. Miller has had a garage built at 1477 Myrtle by W. J. Silverwood; at a cost of $80.

Clarence O. Smith, owner and contractor; dwelling house; 1566 Hawthorne street; $400.

F. H. Kenney; owner and contractor; garage, 1447 Milford; $60.

Malcolm McLaren, owner and contractor; garage, 145 S. Jackson; $150.

Mrs. J. C. Nooman, owner; E. D. Yard, contractor; garage, 1455 Riverdale drive; $30.

J. Roman, owner; F. E. Beyea, contractor; repairing and removing; 209 Chestnut street; $50.

M. & I. Equipment company, owner; A. Anderson, contractor; dwelling, 330 N. Howard; $2500.

W. C. Shanks, owner and contractor; Fairview avenue; dwelling; $1600.

J. F. Stanford, owner and contractor; dwelling, 1431 W. First street, $3000.

J. P. Knott, owner and contractor; apartments; 1005½ Broadway; $800.

R. N. Lambreth, owner and contractor; dwelling, 243 S. Central; $3000.

AFTER DINNER ORATORY

Promising to be one of the most important and largely attended meetings ever held in Glendale is the one which will take place tomorrow, Thursday evening, February 3rd.

The affair is the Federated Brotherhood dinner to be held in the banquet hall at the First Congregational church promptly at 6:30 o'clock and all men, whether members of the Brotherhood or not, are most cordially invited to be present

Following the dinner, during which splendid musical numbers will be given, two speakers are to be introduced. The one, Ex-Lieutenant Governor A. J. Wallace of California, well and favorably known in Glendale, will speak on "Layman's Missionary Movement," and Prof. Jerome Cross, principal of the Pasadena High school, having appeared here twice before, is well known as a strong, interesting and able speaker. Prof. Cross has chosen for his subject, "The Work of the Brotherhood."

All men attending this meeting are sure to enjoy the addresses given by these two prominent men and the dinner served will be up to the standard of those served at the Congregational church.

WEATHER FORECAST—Fair tonight and Thursday; northwest winds.

BIG SCHOOL SHOW

GLENDALE UNION HIGH TO TICKLE PALATE WITH MIRTH-PROVOKING STUNTS

What is augured to prove one of the most hilarious entertainments ever presented from the Glendale Union High school stage is billed for February 17 and 18, Thursday and Friday nights, with a special school matinee on Thursday afternoon.

A Variety show is the way it is heralded—not mere vaudeville—nor a concert, but a snappy two-and-a-half hours' entertainment that will introduce a galaxy of clever performers, all of whom are the cream of the High School's singers, musicians, actors and comedians.

Beside the Variety show, concessions of all sorts will be open to the public's purse and the entire receipts will go toward financing the student body budget. Through the entertainment, school activities are carried on without seriously taxing the student.

The following is but a hint of the full program which is being rushed to completion: The Glendale Union High school orchestra under the direction of Mrs. Dora L. Gibson will furnish at least five numbers during changes of scenery for the mammoth acts which are to be staged.

Songs and more songs—from the pathetic to rag-time melodies—will be furnished by the Harmonious sextette made up of the six champion sweet singers of the school.

An act, labeled a "Comedy Duet" without music, is also announced as a roof raiser. Mr. Owen Dibbern (who is known best for his ability to sell shirts and sox) has consented to be associated in this act with Richard Burke, recently from Denver and Detroit.

Mr. Cecil Crandall, violinist, will offer several pleasing selections. Mr. Crandall needs no introduction to Glendale audiences.

A comedy skit, being prepared under the direction of Miss Fenton, will present "Little Eva," Berna Martin in the leading role. It is believed that Mr. Martin will be offered an Orpheum engagement on the success of this act. "His Daintiness" will appear as a negro mammy. Incidentally, he will not be the only riot in the act.

Miss Terry, dramatic teacher, too, has decided to become a comedy impresario. The act which her students will present is said by Mr. A. L. Ferguson, who has charge of the event, to be a screaming farce. Its name, "An Economical Boomerang," would indicate that some screaming would necessarily be done.

Several other features, which are to be announced later, are under preparation. Mr. Ferguson wishes to make it clear that this entertainment will be the big event of the year. It is not to be confused with the garden type of vaudeville shows, but is a true hippodromic event.

The committee in charge of the show consists of Mr. A. L. Ferguson, chairman; Vera Bayard, Ernestine Lyons, Mary Jane Evans, L. Crandall, Harlan Durand and Fred Dodge.

WOMEN'S MISSIONARY SOCIETY

What is expected to prove a most interesting meeting of the Women's Home and Foreign Missionary society will take place Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. F. Cullen, 306 N. Maryland. As this is the regular monthly meeting of the society the usual routine business will be transacted; particular business will also be brought before the society. The society will then continue its study of "The King's Highway," Mrs. Montgomery's interesting and spiritual volume.

ENTERTAINED AT MANSE

The regular monthly meeting of the board of deacons of the Presbyterian church was held at the Manse, 421 Cedar street, Tuesday evening and after the business of the evening had been transacted, the deacons with their wives and Mrs. Clyde Brooks, deaconesses, were guests of the pastor, Rev. W. E. Edmonds, and Mrs. Edmonds at an informal social evening. Games had been arranged by the hostess and these with the dainty refreshments which she served were much enjoyed by the invited guests. Mrs. H. R. Boyer entertained the company most delightfully with piano selections. Those privileged to enjoy the gracious hospitality of Rev. and Mrs. Edmonds were: Messrs. and Mesdames Roy D. King, W. S. Carmichael, Edmund Stafford, C. C. Widney, Wm. Prendeville, R. Van Kolken, James A. Newton, W. H. Fielding, W. G. Boyd, H. R. Boyer, J. J. Davis, James W. Cooper and Mrs. Clyde Brooks.

The prisoners vainly endeavored today to communicate with American newspapermen, who surrounded the vessel in small boats. The German guards warned the small boats to keep away or they would be fired upon.

SAY SULTAN'S HEIR IS SUICIDE

DISPATCHES FROM CONSTANTINOPLE STATE THAT PRINCE YUSSEF IZEDDIN IS DEAD

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

AMSTERDAM, Feb. 2.—Unconfirmed reports from Constantinople today state that Prince Yussef Izeddin, heir apparent to the Turkish throne, committed suicide in the royal palace by cutting the arteries in his wrists. The story lacks confirmation. It is known, however, that there have been violent quarrels between the sultan and his son on account of the hatred Yussuf is said to have entertained for the Germans. The son frequently told his father that his entanglement with Germany would involve the destruction of Turkey.

CONDUCT AT SCHOOL

LITTLE COURTESIES MAKE SCHOOL A PLEASANT PLACE TO LIVE IN

According to the California Blue Bulletin, which is issued by the state department of education, the school life of every boy and girl is as much a part of his life as his home life. Little courtesies make school a pleasant place to live in. We should never learn set forms of words and use them as we would machines. Address your teacher by his or her own name. Say "Good morning, Miss Holmes." "Goodby Miss Holmes." Do not say "hello" in greeting one older than yourself. A plain "yes" or "no" to one older than yourself is discourteous.

Do not interrupt one who is speaking either by raising the hand or by speaking and never snap the fingers under any circumstances. Do not wait to be asked to lend a hand in school. Be quiet as possible. It is unkind to laugh at the mistakes of others. You make mistakes yourself sometimes. Be kind to the unfortunate. Do not tease a foolish, half-witted boy or girl, stone a crazy person or laugh at a deformed school fellow. If you are sound in mind and body be thankful and show your thankfulness by treating the afflicted kindly.

If a new pupil comes to school do not stand and stare at him or whisper to one another about his clothes or his appearance. Welcome him to your school as you would a friend to your home.

If your father has a little more money than the fathers of some of the other children, do not boast of it. You are no better than your schoolmates because you wear better clothes or have better toys and books. Many of our greatest and noblest men and women were poor boys and girls.

If, on the other hand, you are poor, do not feel humble nor ashamed. Work and play happily. Use your schoolbooks and other school materials with the same freedom that the other children do. Remember you are attending a public school. No boy or girl whose friendship you really want is thinking about your clothes. They are thinking about you, and if you study your lessons, are a good playfellow, and are kindhearted, you are sure to be respected by old and young and to make good friends.

"Do Not's" in Connection with School Conduct

1. Do not pout when asked to do something which seems unpleasant.
2. Do not tease those who are deformed or crippled or any who are weaker than yourself.
3. Do not laugh at the mistakes or failures of others
4. Do not boast when you win in a contest.
5. Do not whine when you are beaten in a contest.
6. Do not crowd and push through doorways.
7. Do not look over another's shoulder to see what he is reading or writing,
8. Do not interrupt a person speaking.
9. Do not flatly contradict any one.
10. Do not listen at doors or windows to conversations which you are not expected to overhear.
11. Do not rudely stare at strangers or question them curiously about their private affairs.

"Do's" in Connection with School Conduct

1. Come to school wearing as clean clothing as possible, with face and hands washed, nails cleaned and hair neatly brushed and combed.
2. Be cheerful.
3. Be kind to the younger and weaker boys and girls, to those who are crippled, to strangers and foreigners and to all others who need your help.
4. If you are a boy, be respectful to ladies and girls. Raise your hat when you greet them. Stand aside to let them pass out of a doorway first. Carry heavy bundles for them.
5. If you are a girl receive the attentions of boys courteously. Always say "Thank you" distinctly so they can hear you whenever boys have done favors for you, such as opening doors, carrying packages or handing you something which you may have dropped.
6. Stand and walk with head erect and shoulders thrown back.
7. Look people straight in the eyes.
8. Think of other people—your teacher, your schoolmates, visitors, and try to imagine how they would like to be treated.
9. Repeat to your friends the pleasant things you hear said of them and try to forget the unpleasant ones.

RICHES OF THE SOIL

PROF. SCHUFELDT TO LECTURE ON VALUE OF HOME GARDENS

The stereopticon lecture to be given tomorrow, Thursday evening, at 8 o'clock sharp, at the High School, by Professor Schufeldt, under the auspices of the Glendale Garden Society, is likely to prove of enormous interest. Every resident of this community should be present. All school children are invited to attend; for they will be told about the prizes to be given young people at the Flower Show in April for carrots, lettuce, potatoes, beets, onions, any vegetable grown by themselves.

These vegetables should be planted at once; old and young, after hearing the program on Thursday evening, can start right away on Friday to plant vegetables and flowers, so as to win some of the prizes. We will be told of the Potato Clubs right here in Glendale. A smart little fellow of 10, attending Columbus Avenue school, has already started to grow potatoes on a vacant lot opposite his house. His parents helped him, of course; they paid to have the lot plowed and harrowed, and they paid for the potatoes to be used for planting. The mother helped the boy to cut the potatoes, and to steep them in formaldehyde; the father helped him to plant. But when the potatoes are ready to market, the boy will pay back to his parents the money expended by them. That is the right kind of boy. That is the right kind of mother, the right kind of father. We want all parents to attend this meeting on Thursday evening, that they may be inspired to back up their children and help them to help themselves.

Backyards can be made to yield plentiful returns to the man and woman willing to give a few minutes a day to the cultivation of the soil. Half an hour every morning in the backyard before going to business would increase the health and vitality of hundreds of Glendale men. Vegetables easy to raise, such as lettuce, carrots, radishes, beets, parsley, would reduce the housekeeping expenses of many an anxious mother. Professor Schufeldt comes to show us how all this can be done; to show us pictures of actual gardens and actual people who are the healthier, happier, and richer, for having already done these things in the backyards of Los Angeles.

The Garden Society has provided this attraction solely that the people of Glendale may benefit thereby. Admission is free. A cordial welcome is extended to all. Let us see the High School Auditorium filled with men, women and children, tomorrow, Thursday, 8 o'clock sharp.

TIN WEDDING

Society has been enjoying quiet and restfulness with a promise of many gay events crowding in between now and the middle of this month for many attractive Valentine and pre-Valentine affairs are being planned. As a forerunner to these happenings was an evening of pleasure on Monday, when the Peter L. Ferrys entertained friends in their home at 536 East Acacia street in celebration of their tenth wedding anniversary. Cards followed by dancing took place in rooms beautifully and artistically done in red carnations intermingled with ferns, with violet tones predominating in one of the rooms. During the gay hours of the evening Mr. and Mrs. Ferry were serenaded by friends.

In keeping with the occasion an elaborate course supper was served at small tables upon bright tinware, places being marked with heart-shaped conceits made of tin ornamented with red hearts and ribbon.

The guests included in Mr. and Mrs. Ferry's list were Mr. and Mrs. James Ewins, Mr. and Mrs. John Vandiver, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. O'Brien, Dr. and Mrs. M. J. Gavin, Mr. and Mrs. Jess Chappius, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Bittle, Mr. and Mrs. R. Griley, Mrs. Carrie Smith, Mrs. Loraine Cramer, Mrs. C. Hamilton, Miss Henrietta Smith, Miss Dorothy Gobelman, Miss Elizabeth Wilson, Miss Gladys Hamilton, Miss Crow, Miss Elsie Hamilton, Miss Mary Branzt, Mr. Geo. Huff, Mr. Donald Hamilton and Mr. E. R. Smith.

DORAN STREET P. T. A.

VITAL STATISTICS IN CALIFORNIA

Vital statistics is the bookkeeping of humanity. This bookkeeping keeps track of humanity in the State from the cradle to the grave. It keeps track of the child as it grows up; marks the entrance on the path of matrimony, sadly but impartially notes divorces and separations and stands by as the clay on the coffin lid utters the last farewell. In the earlier days it was not so. These vital statistics were kept very much at will and the loose system favored many frauds.

Even then California had a much better registration record than any other state west of the Mississippi river and was the only State in which registration was kept on the Pacific side of the Rocky mountains. Contrasting Washington state and California it is easily seen that the older State kept the more accurate records. The records of deaths in Washington have varied widely between 7.9 per 1000 and 10.00; while California's rate has varied slightly at higher levels from 13.4 to 14.6.

In the race between Life and Death it was at first difficult to make any comparisons, as there had always been a very deficient registration in that particular. The registration, however, kept improving from year to year until in 1914 the excess of births over deaths rose more than one-fifth—22.6 per cent.

The California death toll was 29,303 or 14.4 per 1000 in 1906 against 37,537 or only 13.4 in 1914. Marriages numbered 21,317 or 10.5 per 1000 inhabitants in 1906 against 31,902 or 11.5 in 1914, a decrease of 1266 or 5.5 per cent appearing between 1907 and 1908 while all other years showed successive gains, but with increases very small and rates actually declining in both 1913 and 1914.

In the birth and death certificates identifying particulars such as names and dates of persons and parents as well as the place and date of the event are given in addition to statistical data proper. The birth certificate shows date and place of birth, sex, age, birthplace and occupation of each parent, number of children born to each parent and the number of children still living. Death and marriage certificates are very nearly as full and contain all the vital particulars necessary.

It appears from these vital statistics that males preponderate greatly among the inhabitants of the western States. In California there are 125.5 males for every 100 females as against only 106.0 in the rest of the United States. Among deaths here therefore it is easily understood that there are more males than females. The percentage is 61.4 as compared to 55.0 for the whole registration area. For California births, however, the per cent male is only 51.7, being 51.5 among white babies against 53.6 among non-Caucasians, mainly Japanese. The per cent of male births is 51.2 for California mothers, 51.1 for other Americans and 52.4 for foreign born white mothers.

There is a world of light cast on the problems of races by these figures. There is also a world of light thrown on the future of the American race. If these proportions are kept up there will be quite a change in the racial character of the future American citizen. No wonder statistics have been called the handmaid of prophecy.

GUN AND ARMOR BARONS

Apart from the kaiser himself, who has always been a more or less picturesque object, and forever in the limelight, there is no greater or more striking entity in Germany than the great Krupp firm at Essen. Years ago when Bismarck was looking hungrily across the Rhine at France and planning the destruction of the French people and nation he looked around for a firm to manufacture for him guns to subdue the prospective victim.

At that time, Prussia was just struggling into the leadership of the German states and the final crowning of William I in Paris was only a dream. Bismarck found the Krupp factory at his hand, in the center of the coal fields. The Krupps had not the capital wherewith to finance the great armament and munitions plans of Bismarck; but the Iron Chancellor got the money for them from the King of Prussia, who, out of his private fortune, invested 5,000,000 thalers in the Krupp works. That was as good an investment for Germany as Britain's purchase of the Suez canal bonds was to that country.

There are many other great armament works in the world; but there is only one "Krupp's." The great establishment in Essen, however, is not the only institution of its kind belonging to the Krupp firm. They have another important establishment in Magdeburg. They have their own coal mines, their own iron mines. Their employes number 65,000. The higher positions in the firm are filled with retired officers of the army and navy. When the last income returns were made in Germany the Krupp firm's head was taxed on a yearly income of $5,000,000.

This firm has been the right hand of the German government in all its latest inventions. Whenever a new invention has been brought out it has invariably found its working expression at the hands of the great Essen firm. The marvelous guns which smashed the fortifications of Liege and Namur were the product of the Essen factory and, more wonderful than all, the secret of their existence was faithfully kept until the war broke loose and they went into action.

The heiress of the Krupp factories married into the higher nobility and the family is a special favorite with the kaiser, who has depended much on the executive ability of the firm to keep his armies supplied with arms and ammunition.

Money is being coined right and left at Essen these days. The longer the war lasts the wealthier the firm becomes. Essen itself is almost as popular a world center as Berlin. The great hotel there is a marvel of luxury and elegance. Thither, in the pre-war days, came all the dignitaries of minor states. South America was largely represented. South America was able to purchase armor plate at Krupp's at a much lower price than the German government itself could obtain it. That, however, was part of the policy of the German government, which ever since William I's investment in Krupp's stock, has had a ruling hand over the firm. Krupp's great establishment is the soul of Germany. If it is ever destroyed much of Germany's efficiency in the war would vanish. It is the natural arsenal of Germany and a point of peculiar interest to the whole world.

PORK PIES

A'low the same weight of flour as of meat for pies.

A pie composed as follows usually weighs from four to four and a half pounds. To each pie one and three quarter pounds of meat and two pounds of crust for the sides of pie and three ounces for pie lid and 11 ounces for bottom.

To make the pie crust to each pound of flour put five and a quarter ounces of lard, and a little less than a quarter pint of water or milk, adding a little salt to taste. Boil the lard and water together and pour it boiling on the flour, kneading it into a stiff paste. Allow the paste to cool before raising the pies. One pound of flour makes one and a half pounds of crust.

The pie crust should be composed of about one-third fat and two thirds lean, and be cut up into half-inch square pieces. Add three tablespoons of water to each pound of meat.

For seasoning the meat, add one small teaspoon of pepper and two of salt to each pound of meat, and sage to taste, one or two leaves per pound of meat.

HANDY DUST SHEETS

The necessity of covering dressers, sideboards, bric-a-brac, lamps and beds on sweeping day has always sent the maid scurrying about for old aprons, sheets, towels and anything else she could lay hands on to use for the purpose. One housekeeper has solved the difficulty in this way: She purchased a quantity of gray cambric and made from it a large sheet with which to cover the beds and sideboards; smaller covers for dressers and toilet tables were made, and still others in suitable shapes were designed to put over lamps, mantels and the like. She also made from the cambric a bag to keep the covers in; this was hung in the broom closet. While light, the cambric formed a perfect protection against dust and a simple shaking when the sweeping was finished freed the covers from all dust that had settled upon them, so that they required washing but once a month. The use of these dust covers saved much valuable time and extra work. The cost of such a set is moderate and it does not take long to make them.

SENSIBLE ADVICE

You would laugh at the child who should try to pick up a heavy sledge hammer to kill a mosquito. But many grown-up children quite as foolishly use their strength. They waste strength. They fret, worry, whirl about, get into a passion, have not time to eat or to sleep properly—indeed, often sit up so late and get so tired that they can't sleep. These persons, whether old or young, need to learn the following simple rules: 1. Never fret yourself nor anybody else. 2. Never indulge in fits of passion, nor the blues. 3. Never do things in a confused hurry. 4. Eat regularly, cheerfully, moderately, but don't eat what is indigestible. 5. Don't cut short your sleep. Get eight hours of it in clean, well-ventilated rooms. 6. Give your stomach and brain, as well as your hands, all the rest they need. 7. Be self-controlled, calm, hopeful. Keep a good conscience and cheerfully trust in God.

Agriculture is our basic industry. The future of the republic is in the last analysis dependent upon the maintenance of a great agricultural population, spread as evenly as may be throughout the country.—Alhambra Advocate.

WAR PRICES BRING HIM A FORTUNE

A few months ago S. F. Coolidge of 1307 Nines avenue, Monrovia, tried to dispose of his interest in the Blue Chrystal magnesite mines in Tulare county. As there was no market for the product, Mr. Coolidge offered to exchange his interest for a shotgun and a couple of fishing rods that his mining partner owned. The latter refused to trade.

This week Mr. Coolidge disposed of his share in the mines for $15,000 spot cash. The buyers were E. J. Sundin and associates, of San Francisco. The partner who refused to trade for the half interest now refuses to sell, and has made an agreement with Mr. Sundin for a royalty on his share of the magnesite sold.

War Prices Did It

War prices are responsible for the sudden skyrocketing of values in magnesium mining properties, and while Mr. Coolidge was not made a millionaire by "war boom" stocks, he secured a very fair slice of cash for his property, and he owns other mining properties in the same section, it is possible that the sale just concluded may be the foundation for a substantial fortune. He expects to begin development work on the unsold claims, known as the Green Ridge gold mines, in the near future. He has great faith in the Tulare county gold country, which he says contains vast amounts of hidden treasure, awaiting only the coming of the practical prospector.

Magnesite in Demand

Mr. Coolidge came to Monrovia with his family last April, from Lindsay, Cal., near which city his mining properties are located. When he left there he declared he was never going to do another tap of work on his magnesite prospects, which had not at that time felt the influence of the war.

But soon after the Greek and Austrian magnesium mines were closed to the world, and American manufacturers began to scurry around looking for the mineral in this country. Magnesite mines are plentiful in several sections of California, the largest deposits in the world being in Santa Clara and Stanislaus counties; but there is a widespread demand for the mineral, in paper making, brick making, steel manufacture and a host of other arts and crafts processes.

Transcontinental freight is expensive as compared to water carriage, and soon magnesite jumped from $7.50 to $22.50 a ton in New York. The specific gravity is about the same as lead.

Making Hay in the Sun

Under these conditions, the men who negotiated for Mr. Coolidge's magnesite claims were anxious to pay good money for them, to get immediate possession. They wanted to deliver their magnesium carbonate to a "bull" market, and they are doing it, as fast as a gang of 30 men can prepare the ore for shipment. The recent rains have caused some delay, making the roads almost impassable, but the market is still short several thousand tons, and growing shorter every day, so the new owners are not worrying.

Mr. Coolidge decided to accept a lump sum for his holding rather than a royalty, because he preferred a sure thing to betting when the war will end. When it does, the bottom will drop out of magnesite, for it costs $15 a ton to ship the ore to New York, and when the European sources of supply are again opened magnesite can be laid down in New York harbor for $7.50.—Monrovia News.

The brighter outlook for prices is stimulating the cottongrowers in the Imperial valley to plant larger acreages. Fully 100,000 acres is the estimate of the manager of one of the cotton companies. One company alone has purchased a tract of 10,000 acres and is planning to put 400 mules to work immediately. It will be planted exclusively to long staple cotton. The company expects to erect a cotton seed oil mill and a cotton gin at Calipatria.

Education commences at the mother's knee, and every word that is spoken within the hearing of the little children tends towards formation of character. A child is better unborn than untaught. The true purpose of education is to cherish and unfold the seed of immortality already sown within us; to develop to their fullest extent the capacities of every kind with which God who made us has endowed us.

AN AUTO DRIVEN FROM A HEIGHT

From a height of 14 feet from the ground, the driver of one of Philadelphia's tower wagons for trimming street lamps can control his automobile. The car has a second seat built up on stilts, says The American Boy; the driver does not need to climb down to the lower seat after he has trimmed each light. The man is now able to cover in six hours a route which formerly took nine hours.

BASKETBALL VICTORY FOR GLENDALE—DEBATE ON SATURDAY

Glendale defeated South Pasadena last Saturday in a no-competition game. The score was 28-13. This was the last league game of the season. The results of all the league games are as follows:

Monrovia vs. Glendale, 9-51.
Covina vs. Glendale, 29-27.
Harvard vs. Glendale, 20-22.
Alhambra vs. Glendale, 31-20.
South Pasadena vs. Glendale, 13-28.

Total—Opponents, 102; Glendale, 148.

The fellows who have won their letters in basketball this year are Jamie Shea, Bill Renshaw, Dan Hagin and Mark Francy. Bob Kolts and Tom Phillips will be awarded stars this year since they won their letters last year.

Debate

One of the finest debates in which Glendale has ever participated will be held Saturday night when Glendale will meet Huntington Park in a dual debate which will decide the champion of the smaller section of the league. Howard Stickney and Sam Durand will debate at Huntington Park while Frank Bridgeport and Joseph Maier will uphold the negative at Glendale. The question is "Resolved, That the defense of the United States against foreign aggression would be furthered by changing to one year the term of voluntary enlistment in the regular army." The Glendale team has resolved to win.

Baseball

It is expected that about thirty-six candidates for the baseball team will be out next week. Coach Wright thinks that we have a fine chance to cop the pennant in baseball this year. This year we will play each school twice, this making ten games. The schools in the league are Monrovia, Covina, Alhambra, Howard, South Pasadena and Glendale.

Extemporaneous Debate

Tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock the letter containing the question for the debate on Vocational Education will be opened. Miss Ethyl West, Glendale's representative, is well prepared on the subject of "Vocational Education" and will undoubtedly put up an excellent debate.

General Notes

Darwin Kirschman and Wayne Smith, both of the class of '15, visited Glendale High last Friday. "Pluto" is now a student at the Throop institute of Technology. Wayne is a freshman at U. S. C.

It is reported that Sam Durand has been invited to join the Ford peace party.

John Dunn, '14, visited Glendale High today.

Miss Hazel Tyler, '15, entered school Monday as a post graduate.

Mr. Taylor's chemistry students are just recovering from a half day exam.

The photo editor of the "Stylus" urges all owners of cameras to get busy.

Every one is looking forward to a first-class vaudeville to be given by the student body on Feb. 17 and 18.

The senior leap year ball will take place Friday night.

Scrubbie-Scrubs

About fifty midyear freshmen entered Glendale High last Monday. The other classes, especially the sophomores, are trying very hard to give the babes a hearty welcome. Realizing that the scrubs are quite unacquainted with our High School methods, we offer the following suggestions:

1. Learn all school songs and yells.
2. Do not create disturbance in assembly or halls.
3. Do not ride your bicycle on the sidewalks around the buildings.
4. Become familiar with the Student Body constitution which may be obtained in the school library.
5. Recognize the legitimate leadership of upper classmen in school affairs.
6. Do not break a rule just to show you can. Any fool can.
7. Realize that all suggestions given by the executive committee are for your benefit and the benefit of the school.

SPICE CAKE

One pound flour, one egg, one dessertspoon baking powder, one quarter pound beef drippings, one quarter pound sifted sugar, one half pound currants, two ounces candied peel, one teaspoon mixed spice, about one half pint milk.

Sift the flour into a basin and rub in the dripping with the tips of the fingers, until free from lumps. Then add the fruit, carefully prepared, and the other dry ingredients. Mix these together and make a well in the center. Add the egg well beaten, and enough milk to bind all together, and make a soft dough. The mixture should be moist enough to drop from the spoon. Pour quickly into a well-greased tin, bake in a moderate oven until well risen and firm to the touch. Time to bake about two hours.

Twelve small pears, one and a half pounds loaf sugar, one half pint of water, the rind and juice of three lemons. Cut thick four pieces of whole ginger, bruised; two drops cochineal, a little powdered cinnamon, and a few cloves. Stew the pears very gently for 10 hours.

The literary section of the Tuesday Afternoon club met at the home of Mrs. Frank Grosvenor, 1421 Burchett street, Tuesday afternoon. The meeting was called to order by Mrs. C. E. Harlan, curator, and roll call was responded to by a current event.

"Immigration" was the topic for the afternoon. Mrs. A. L. Weaver gave a splendid review of the "Old World in the New" by E. A. Ross, telling of tht influence the different nationalities have upon this country. "Our Foreign-born Neighbors" by G. W. Tupper was the interesting subject of Mrs. Mattison B. Jones, explaining what the Young Men's Christian association is doing for foriegners coming to America.

Mrs. Harlan had as special guest Mrs. Jane Beatty of Highland Park, who gave an interesting and instructive talk on "Ireland and Conditions in That Country."

Mrs. Chase Thompson was present as guest of the hostess. At the close of a most profitable afternoon the meeting adjourned, the next to take place on Tuesday afternoon, February 15, in the home of Mrs. A. L. Weaver, 235 Kenwood avenue, at 2:30 o'clock.

BARACAS PREPARE FOR GAME

In view of the basketball game which is to be played with the West Adams Presbyterian club, Saturday evening, Feb. 5, the Baraca society of the First Methodist Episcopal church is putting in some time at practice. The result of this work was seen in the practice game of Monday night, when the boys showed remarkable accuracy at every point. Monday evening's game was played immediately after the regular meeting in the Sunday school hall, when a number of important business matters were disposed of. Saturday evening's game will be played on the court of the W. Adams team.

COWSLIP CORNER AND ITS BIRDS

Describing a favorite nook where he goes to watch the birds, Oliver G. Pike says, in "Bird Biographies":

"I never go into Cowslip Corner in winter or summer without seeing something of interest, and the photographs that I have secured there would more than fill a book; hundreds of plates have been exposed, and nearly a mile of bioscope film. And yet, each visit I see something new, and each time I take my camera a fresh picture is secured. No matter how long I linger there, the time is not wasted. There, a hundred songs greet me; from the ground, in the bushes, and in the air above, and from the lake beyond the creek, which comes almost up to Cowslip Corner, I hear the harsher cries of Grebe and Duck, of Coot and Moorhen. Turtle Doves call from the tall trees, and a Cuckoo from the hedge.

"There seemed to be the flowers of a dozen meadows crowded into this small corner and violets, primroses, cowslips in the greatest profusion; patches of the lovely blue veronica, with its thousand small faces pointing up to the blue above, looking as if little flakes of the sky had just tumbled down and settled upon the grass to add to the beauty below; wild roses, pink and white, tall red campion in the grass, ragged robin, and a host of others all appeared in their turn, and made that corner one of the loveliest spots of a beautiful countryside. Then, over all, there was the song of the Lark, and there were few months of the year in which there was not a Lark singing above. Mixed up with the music of the Warblers, Thrush and Finch, there was the hum of a thousand insects' wings as they went to and fro, from flower to flower, or the bees, happy in the sunshine, passed from or to their hives."

I LOVE YOU, MOTHER

"I love you, mother," said little John;
Then, forgetting his work, his cap went on,
And he was off to the garden swing,
Leaving his mother the wood to bring.

"I love you, mother," said rosy Nell;
"I love you better than tongue can tell."
Then she teased and pouted full half the day,
Till her mother rejoiced when she went to play.

"I love you, mother," said little Fan;
"Today I'll help you all I can;
How glad I am that school doesn't keep!"
So she rocked the baby till it fell asleep.

. . . . . .

"I love you, mother," again they said—
Three little children going to bed;
How do you think that mother guessed
Which of them really loved her best?

—Joy Allison.

SEMI-CIRCULAR TRIMMINGS

The new spring models with all the lines of bands, ruffles, and applied trimmings running crosswise, have as their latest feature a break in the circular lines of the skirts. Whether it is because the designers realize that the shortening effect of continuous circles on the skirts would not be advisable for many women, or because we have enjoyed at least one season when there was a definite line for all ornamentation, is not known; but the fact remains that many new frocks lack trimming either in the front, or in the back, and so the all round effect is broken.

A smart serge suit, just over from Paris, has elongated tabs to the waist line on the front of the tiny bolero; and the short, rather full skirt has its seven narrow bands of stitching only on the sides and back. These rows of white silk stitching, most effective on the blue serge, commence at the hip line, the last being placed just above the six-inch hem; only four lines of stitching form each band. The same motive is repeated about the neck and wrists of the bolero. The idea might be carried out in black braid, using lines of the narrowest soutache, or a brand about three-eighths to half an inch wide, the end finished with a tiny black silk tassel. The decoration need only be applied to each side, leaving the front and back quite plain.

An attractive frock of green taffeta faille, with a blouse and short tunic of black lace, has three bands of two-inch black velvet ribbon on the tunic which is edged with a double ruche of pinked taffeta, and is open the full front breadth. The banding only at the sides and back of a full skirt or tunic does not reduce the height much as the folds of the material and the natural movement of the wearer tend to break up the continuous line. Another method which also breaks a series of lines is the use of narrow black velvet ribbons which extend from the black belt over the skirt; and also the use, at the back, of long, wide sash end of contrasting color.

Another model along this idea is of white crepe de chine, with three lines of pointed picot-edged scallops across the front of the skirt, while the sides and back are perfectly simple with only a full eight-inch hem, hanging in many soft, thin folds. The first line of scallops, placed about the hip line, is followed by the second line nine inches below, the third being a foot below that. There is the same pointed scallop on the blouse and it is all put together with the popular ajour effect.

HOOKS AND EYES AND OTHER THINGS

When hooks and eyes are used on the placket of a tailor-made suit, if the pair at the base of the opening are pinched down flat the placket will never tear or look shabby.

A canvas or linen household pocket, or sidebag, with a belt, will be found a great step saver for the busy housekeeper. In it she may stow her keys pocketbook or memorandum pad and pencil, so that they are ready to hand.

A neligee made of soft French flannel in gray, lined with India silk, the entire edge buttonholed in scallops, will be found very cozy. It takes up little room in the suit case and is handy for week-end trips.

Before cleaning tan or russet shoes they should be rubbed over lightly with a flannel cloth wet with milk, first removing any stains with benzine. If this is done, the shoes will receive the polish much better and remain in a softer and more pliable wearing condition.

If the fancy eiderdown quilt which is generally laid across the foot of the guest-room bed be folded back and forth like a fan, it may readily be pulled up when needed.

The hot-water platter will be found useful at breakfast time. Boiling water is turned into the tank under the platter and the top is screwed on. Then the nickel cover is placed over the food, which keeps hot and in perfect condition for at least 30 minutes.

YORKSHIRE CAKES

Put two pounds of flour into a bowl; scoop a hole in the center, but do not touch the bottom of the bowl, and pour into the hollow thus made a little less than an ounce of German yeast which has been dissolved in half a cup of hot water. The water, when added to the batter, ought to be a little more than new-milk-warm. Draw a little of the flour from the side of the bowl into the liquor until it is of the consistency of thick cream. Sprinkle a little flour over it to cover the surface, and leave it in a warm place to rise. In about an hour when the bubbles of yeast show themselves through the flour, knead much luke-warm milk as is necessary for the purpose. The cakes will require about a pint of milk altogether. Gash the surface of the dough two or three times across with a knife, throw a warm towel over it, and leaves it to rise. When it is very light —that is, when the surface cracks, which it will do in an hour or more —divide it into 10 portions of equal size. Roll these lightly into cakes four inches in diameter, and put them on a baking tin; prick them with a fork and let them rise before the fire for 10 minutes. Put them into a moderately heated oven; they must not be baked hard. When they are to be served, either cut them into halves, toast them and butter liberally, or heat in the oven, divide them and butter them Serve very hot.

These cakes may be made with four ounces of butter instead of six, and one egg instead of two. They may be buttered and served cold, but are usually served hot. Time to bake—a quarter of an hour.

PUSH A BUTTON FOR A CAR

A city on the western coast has a street car line which, in operation, much resembles an elevator in an office building. A prospective passenger, arriving at either end of the road, is invited by a sign to "Push the Button if You Want a Car." The "push" makes a car appear from somewhere down the line, much as an elevator responds to the same kind of call. Passengers are carried over a distance of half a mile, or more, by the car. The service was established by the traction company as a temporary expedient to carry passengers from one transfer point to another while a new bridge is being built over the old route. Only one man operates the lone car and his occupation will last six months, or more, before the bridge is finished. —Popular Mechanics.

CHEESE SOUFFLE

One half ounce of butter, one half ounce of flour, one eighth pint milk, one yolk and two whites of eggs, two ounces ordinary cheese, pepper and salt.

Melt the butter in a saucepan. Add the flour and milk and stir until it thickens; then put in grated cheese, salt and pepper. Put the white of eggs and salt on a plate and beat until stiff. Line pate pan with thin pastry. Mix the whites with the cheese. Then put a teaspoon in each pate pan. Bake 7 or 8 minutes.

BEEFSTEAK IN TOMATOES

Some day when the oven is being used for other cooking plan to have for dinner round or planked steak cooked with tomatoes, and for this dish either fresh or canned tomatoes can be utilized. Place the steak in a slightly greased baking pan which has a close fitting cover. Cover it with tomatoes, sliced if fresh or just turned out of the can if canned. Also add one small onion, coarsely chopped, and a small piece of bay leaf, together with salt and pepper. Cover the whole closely and cook for an hour and a half without removing the cover of the baking dish. Add no water as the tomatoes are moist enough.—Ottawa Citizen.

PLAIN LEMON PUDDING

Three quarters pound of flour.
Six ounces lard.
Juice of one large lemon.
One teaspoon flour (separately).
One teaspoon sugar.

Make the flour and lard into a smooth paste and roll it out. Squeeze the lemon juice into a cup; stir one teaspoon of flour into it, and as much moist sugar as will make it into a stiff paste. Spread this mixture over the paste, roll it up and tie the pudding in a floured cloth and steam two hours.

WORK-BASKETS

Never was such a variety of workbaskets as are being shown this year, says the Philadelpha North American. It speaks well for the domesticity of the American woman that the manufacturers should guage their tastes in this way. A useful kind of a basket has little sticks standing up around the sides, over which the spools may be fitted. This is a great improvement over keeping them loose in the basket, where they are apt to become unrolled and get hopelessly snarled. Here they are right at hand; you may find at once the kind you are looking for, and the thread may be cut off without removing the spool.

FLOATING ISLAND

Into three quarters of a pint of cream put sugar to make it very sweet and the juice and rind of a lemon grated. Beat it for 10 minutes. Cut French rolls or sponge cake into thin slices and lay them on a round dish on the top of the cream. On the top of this put a layer of apricot or currant jam and some more slices of roll. Pile up on this very high a whip made of damson jam and the whites of four eggs. It should be rough to imitate a rock. Garnish with fruit or sweetmeats.

POTATO SOUP

Cut six large white potatoes into small cubes and throw them into cold water. Wash carefully a complete soup bunch of all the needed greens; cut it fine and add one can of mushrooms, or a half pound of fresh ones carefully pared and washed. Put all into the soup pot and boil until tender; then add slowly a pint of good, drawn butter and serve with toast squares or tiny rolls.

WAYS TO SERVE MACARONI

Mushrooms and Macaroni—Prepare the macaroni in the usual way. Make one pint of English brown gravy. Take one can of button brown mushrooms, drain them, and saute them five minutes in butter; add them to the gravy and turn all over the macaroni

Baked Macaroni—Boil and drain one package of macaroni in the usual way. Place a layer of it in the bottom of a well-buttered baking dish. Over this put a layer of macedoine vegetables (these may be home perpared or procured in bottles; they consist of carrots, turnips, peas, and small, green beans boiled and diced), then a dusting of English cheese grated, pepper, salt and dots of butter. Next another layer of the macaroni is put into the dish and the process continued until it is full. Add two cups of strained tomato juice, dust the top with grated cheese and bake.

Escalloped Macaroni with Oysters —Break a small package of macaroni into boiling salted water; after boiling 12 minutes, drain and blanch. Put in a buttered baking dish alternate layers of boiled macaroni and raw oysters rolled in fine crumbs; pepper, salt, and lumps of butter are put between each layer until the dish is full. Pour over all a cupful of cream and cover the top with buttered crumbs. Bake in a medium oven 15 minutes. Clams may be steamed open and used in place of the oysters if desired.

Pineapple Spaghetti—Boil, blanch and drain one package of spaghetti, then add to it one grated fresh pineapple, a half cup chopped pecan nuts, a half cup of sugar, a cup of cream, and fold in the stiffy beaten whites of three eggs. Pour all into a well-buttered baking dish and sprinkle a little powdered macaroon on top, with a grating of nutmeg and dots of butter. Bake in the oven 20 minutes to a half hour, until a delicate brown on top.

Spaghetti in Tomato Aspic— Boil and blanch a package of spaghetti, then chop it coarsely. Take a large can of tomatoes and add a little chopped celery, a sliced onion and a bunch of savory herbs. Boil this mixture for half an hour, then strain; add to the strained tomato juice three heaping tablespoons of powdered gelatine that has been soaked a little while in cold water. When the gelatine is thoroughly melted, add seasoning to taste and strain the sauce over the spaghetti Pour all into a mold that has been wet with cold water and set aside to chill and harden. When ready to serve, turn out of the mold and slice on lettuce leaves, covering each slice with rich mayonnaise.

Spaghetti Cutlets—Boil a half package of spaghetti until done, then drain, blanch and chop it in small pieces. Add to it six ounces of bread crumbs, one large onion that has been chopped and browned in butter, a teaspoon of chopped parsley, a teaspoon of lemon juice, a couple of tomatoes that have been chopped and fried with the onion, pepper, salt, a dash of sugar, and one beaten egg to bind the mixture. Mix all well and shape into cutlets. Dip each in egg, roll them in flour, then fry them in hot fat. Serve with a rich smooth tomato sauce.

Italian Spaghetti—To one package of boiled and blanched spaghetti add a small cup of bread crumbs that have been fried in butter and drained with pepper, salt, a gill of melted butter in which a half teaspoon of powdered saffron has been mixed, and a cup and a half of smooth tomato sauce about the consistency of honey. Wipe the serving dish with a bud of garlic and turn in the mixture.

Vermicelli Custard—Boil, drain and blanch a half box of vermicelli; then add to it a cup of hot milk, a cup of hot cream, a cup of sugar, three beaten eggs, a teaspoon of vanilla, a grating of nutmeg, and 12 large seeded raisins that have been allowed to marinate in ginger sirup for a half hour. Pour all in a buttered baking dish and set the dish in a pan of hot water in the oven until the custard sets. Serve the pudding hot or cold with whipped cream.

Vermicelli Soup—Set a three-pound chicken to boil in two quarts of red stock; add two slices of bacon, a bud of garlic and an onion stuck with cloves. When the chicken is well done, take it out and strain the soup. Return it to the soup pot and, when it boils, add four ounces of vermicelli and the seasoning; let boil for 10 minutes, then add the chicken that has been diced, cook ten minutes more, then turn into the tureen and strew over the top toasted bread squares.
